NOT AN ORDINARY
FEMININE WASH

THE INVISIBLE ANGEL

A female vagina is slightly acidic and inhabited by a diverse of microflora, which include both friendly and harmful bacteria. Lactobacillus, for example, is the most predominant microflora that serves as a gatekeeper in the vaginal tract.

LACTOBACILLUS HELPS TO :

- Promote acidic micro-ecological environment to discourage the flourishing of unwanted bacteria
- Inhibit the overgrowth of harmful bacteria
- Build natural defenses in the intimate part

To ensure an optimal vaginal health, the amount of microflora has to be balanced. But, the micro-ecological environment is very sensitive. Our lifestyle habits especially using improper cleansing products and poor personal hygiene will stimulate the overgrowth of harmful bacteria, which in turn lead to vaginal infection.

A DELICATE PAMPER, FOR THE INTIMATE PART
